

Deborah Chen

6.170 individual reflection

Critique for other team members

Yi-Shiuan

- Good
  - Very committed to delivering project, especially during crunchtime.
  - Open to feedback
- Improve
  - Teamwork
    - Sometimes you got stuck on one thing and spent a lot of time on it. Would be better to alert team members so we can help early on.
  - Technical
    - In the beginning, you didn't follow the team git workflow, which led to some broken code, but this was fixed after the MVP
    - Could follow the rails convention more often (e.g. placing methods in the right model, putting views in the right folder)

Dwyane

- Good
  - Experienced with model testing
  - Willing to invest in UI work
  - Open to feedback
- Improve
  - Teamwork
    - Take more ownership of the project. You could have expressed your views/vision more, instead of "going with the flow."
  - Attendance
    - Show up to more presentations - you didn't come to the pitch, MVP or final demo.
    - At times, you were late to meetings or had to leave early. I know things come up, but it happened multiple times. It would have been better if you had tried to carve out your time better.
  - Technical
    - A few times (e.g. when you pushed the new users form for the MVP), you checked in code to master without testing that it worked locally. This caused problems for the rest of us when we pulled it. It would have been better to test things locally first.